

Penylan House

Community Nursing Home, Cardiff

Linc
care

Penylan House on Penylan Road in Cardiff, is Linc Care's second purpose built community Nursing Home. Linc has been working in partnership with newly-named charity PenCare (formerly known as the Trustees of Penylan House) to redevelop their existing nursing home into a brand new 73-bedroom state of the art facility.

The redevelopment of this existing care home will ensure the continued provision of high quality care and modern facilities to older people within Cardiff's Jewish Community, while extending this service to the general population of older people in need of nursing care – including those with dementia.

The first phase of the £4.7m redevelopment has been completed which consists of 30 bedrooms and the existing 28 residents have now moved across from the old building. Once complete, all 73 single occupancy bedrooms will be en-suite with a shower and fully wheelchair accessible. The whole building will also exceed CSSIW (Care and Social Services Inspectorate Wales) requirements with bigger bedrooms, wider corridors, spacious lounges and more staff facilities.

In keeping with its close association with the Jewish Community, the new home has facilities to recognise the religion of its Jewish residents and has a kosher kitchen. Linc staff have taken part in Jewish Culture workshops to understand and respect the culture and traditions. Services at Penylan House are extended for the wider community and people from all faiths.

Work is currently underway on phase two and the vacated existing building is being prepared for demolition. This phase consists of a further 43 bedrooms and is due to be completed in June next year.

The new home is owned and operated by Linc Care, the Health and Social Care division of Linc-Cymru.

This is a very exciting initiative and both parties are confident that the partnership will secure the provision of the highest standard of care possible for current and future residents in modern facilities for many years to come.
