Royal Court, serene and picturesque - a place where life feels better...

One of the south coast's most desirable locations with village life, a rich social and waterside scene and everything you need close at hand.

West Quay, Southampton

Hamble Marina

The ruins of Netley Abbey's medieval monastery reflect an historic charm that's loved by local residents and tourists alike.

Nestling in a haven of serenity and overlooking one of the country's most sought-after shorelines, Royal Court has everything close at hand. From its beautiful conservation area setting to the neighbouring Royal Victoria Country Park, the popular River Hamble and the bustling marinas that pepper the coastline, this really is a place where life feels better.

Lying just to the east of the city of Southampton, Netley Abbey is quaint, historic yet remarkably accessible for both the residents who value traditional village life and the visitors who flock to the Solent to enjoy the rich social, shopping and sailing scene this area is so renowned for.

Situated close to some of the best road and rail networks in the country, the village brings travel to areas beyond Southampton within easy reach. The M27/M3/A3 motorways to Portsmouth and Bournemouth and beyond are a short distance away and the local mainline railway station makes for a straightforward commute to London. Of course, being so close to the sea has its travel benefits too; the Isle of Wight and European destinations are just across the water.

Tastefully designed with privacy, security and elegance in mind.

Royal Court has been designed with privacy, security and an exquisite grandeur in mind. Each of the nine elegant apartments and penthouse suites has access to its own landscaped garden and private parking, which is accessed through a secure, private driveway that's shared with Hartwood's superb 65-bed care home.

Every apartment within this magnificent, three-story building benefits from outstanding views, from the majority that capture the adjacent waterfront to those that enjoy far-reaching views over Netley Abbey, yet each retains a characteristic individuality and undisturbed aspect that makes Royal Court a pleasure to come home to.

Building inspirational homes

Hartwood Residential, the partnership between renowned developer, Highwood Group, our financial partner, Cinnamon Care Capital and one of the South of England's leading care providers, Hartford Care, is committed to building inspirational homes and creating retirement communities that put lifestyle choices, beautiful living spaces and outstanding care first.

We know that wellbeing, peace of mind and freedom to live life the way we choose is what matters most to homebuyers as they reach retirement age. Together with our joint venture specialist care partner, Hartford Care, we've devised schemes that take account of the needs of a new generation of property buyers who value comfort, safety and quality, but not at the cost of luxury, good design or character.

We know that discerning buyers expect high specifications, stylish features and settings that ensure their investment is the right one and we've made it our business to meet those exacting demands. We're committed to selective, prestigious development and stunning architecture and then we go further with a portfolio of concierge services, intelligent technologies and energy-saving features that work effortlessly and simply make life easier.

Naturally, retirement living has its own set of unique prerequisites, so we incorporate features that focus on safety and support. This includes general assistance as well as assisting in the arrangement of non-specialist requirements such as respite care facilities, 24 hour emergency support and care for more specialist needs; these services being potentially delivered either by the care home or through a domiciliary care provider.

We know that ours is a philosophy that works. We're creating beautiful, worry-free communities and futures – and buildings that people really want to call home...
