Choosing the care that's right for you

Choosing the right care for you or your loved one can be a confusing task, researching various care options such as a care home versus home care, deciding which service will offer the most appropriate care and finding a reputable agency can be extremely time-consuming and stressful.

- A person's home can become their safe bubble and provide special memories, for some people, to move to a new environment may cause emotional stress and discomfort.
- There may be a support network nearby of friends and family and social aspects in the local community which they enjoy.
- People tend to be more independent within their own home, the layout, location of items are familiar.

Providing care and support where you can remain at home, in familiar surroundings can offer significant benefits.

At Papillon Home Care, we work with you to create a care package to support your individual needs.

We will visit you/your loved one and discuss the care and support requirements, your likes and dislikes and build a support package to help promote your independence where possible, but offering the care required to live a fulfilled life.

Papillon Home Care provide a local service in Folkestone, New Romney, Ashford and surrounding areas.

Short Term Care

Short-term care arrangements can be made when someone requires a temporary package of care; this is designed to focus on the immediate needs of the person; this can be for:

Following a hospital stay: If a person has been in hospital, had surgery, illness etc, they may need a few days or weeks' assistance to support them when they return home. This will allow them time to heel, adjust, and hopefully return to independence.

Carer Respite: A temporary support plan can be implemented if the regular or family carer is going away or needs a break.

Holiday Support: Care staff can join your family and offer the same support that they would at home.

Initial support: Someone might need some temporary assistance while waiting for a more permanent arrangement to be put in place.

Palliative care: Having the help of carers during these difficult times can provide vital support to the person and their families. Carers can work alongside nurses and make the final few weeks/days more comfortable and reduce the stress on the families, allowing them more time to spend with their loved ones.

Papillon Home Care provided care to my Nan for 16 months leading up to January 2021 enabling her to stay in her own home for as long as possible. The carers were amazing, going above and beyond and gave great physical support as well as company. It was a great comfort knowing how well my Nan was being cared for.

Long Term Care

Every year, more people choose to stay within their own homes, rather than moving to a care/residential home or supported living setting.

This allows them to stay in a familiar setting where they feel safe close to friends and family. Whether moving in with family or continuing to live independently within their home, care services can support those who need a little extra help to live comfortably and safely at home.

Long-term care is a long-term support solution. Care at home may start with just a few weekly calls and build up over time as the support needs increase. A care package can be amended and adapted to suit the person's needs, whether increased due to additional health needs or illness or decreased due to improvements in health or independence.

Long-term care at home is a suitable option for individuals with ongoing, complex health conditions, the elderly or people with disabilities.

What our clients say:

"The service my Aunty received has been absolutely outstanding! All the workers have made her feel a sense of normality again after losing a lot of her independence. To be able to be at home is the one thing she had been praying for and Papillon Home Care has made this possible!"
