

Maintaining independence

We are here to help and support you to be as independent as long as you can. We are here to make sure you do what you want to do when you want to do it. We will make sure that all the life skills are there and you can do what you would like to do.

Keeping in touch with the local community

When you are getting support in the community that does not mean you have to lose your links with the community.

We help you maintain active links to the local community and understand the positive impact that delivering care in the heart of the community can have on their health and wellbeing.

Reminiscence and evoking the senses

As language becomes less useful to people living with dementia, so other means of communication become more important. That can be touch, sight, taste or sound. You and our team will come up with activities that will Popular activities at our care homes include music therapy, using sensory items, pet therapy and reminiscence sessions. For many people living with dementia, memories from times gone by can be easier to access and talk about. Different objects and pictures can often help spark memories and create a conversation
